LE MERIDIEN

Last year August in our issues we stated that Havana Club @ Le Meridien will be closed due to the hotel's renovation in July.

Now we're back in operation same time 2pm till 12am but instead located inside the main lobby, we're now located outside the main lobby along the balcony area. It's purpose for smoking area, since indoor are no longer having smoking section area. There are 4 tables with capacity of 6 person each table at the balcony. More sitting areas compare to the previous.

On 21st June, we have launched reopening of the outlet by inviting 50 regular members for a cocktail party from 7:00 pm to 9:30 pm. Thank you for making it a success!

Cuaba : A Brief History. Officially launched by Habanos president Francisco Linares on November 19, 1996 at Claridge's Hotel in London, Great Britain, as an all-perfecto line of cigars. The brand was launched in an attempt to revive figurados, which had initially been very popular in the early 20th century but had declined since about the 1950s. For the release party, the creator of the line, Carlos Izquierdo González, and fourteen other highly-skilled torcedores (cigar rollers) demonstrated making figurado cigars. The original Cuabas were of slightly differing sizes within the same box, due to a cigar mold not being used to press them into shape. When molds were finally made for Cuaba around a year later, these original non-molded cigars became great collectors' items. González claims he styled the Cuaba blend after Montecristo, but most cigar connoisseurs believe the blend used is more similar in taste to Romeo y Julieta. Coincidentally enough, most Cuaba cigars are manufactured in the Briones Montoto (Romeo y Julieta) factory.

AL CAPONE

One of America's most notorious gangsters was about to board a train for prison, having been nailed for tax evasion. During the Roaring Twenties, Capone had controlled gambling, prostitution and bootlegging rackets. Despite his proensity for violence, the Chicago crime boss saw himself as a generous benefactor, someone who provided jobs for thousands and served "decent liquor and square games." As he was led to the train in 1932 after losing his appeal, Capone bade adieu to his freedom by lighting a cigar. The stereotypical image of a mobster wearing a blue pinstriped suit and tilted fedoras based on photos of Capone. His accent, mannerisms, facial construction, physical stature, and parodies of his name have been used for numerous gangsters in comics, movies, music, and literature.
